During my cadetship I have worked on container and bulk vessels with Zodiac Maritime Agencies, where I gained valuable experience in all aspects of navigation, safety, cargo handling, stability and maintenance. Since the 14th August 2009 to November 2009 I had been working for Dong/Siemens offshore company, supplying and serving the offshore wind farm industry with crew and equipment hence experienced with tender driving small vessels in all conditions of weather.

I have always had a patient temperament. Subsequently having an easy, polite and courteous character I find it effortless resolving disputes.

I find joining and working with new team members stimulating and exciting which keeps me motivated in addition to being efficient at both administration duties and deck maintenance, which in my opinion makes a successful working environment. I can confidently declare to being a keen sailor who is looking for excellent opportunities to develop and widen my experiences. Moreover I aspire to continue learning, develop my capability to increase my knowledge and skill in the maritime industry.

I take pleasure in travelling, which is not just limited to work purposes however but for leisure as well. From this I have discovered I enjoy learning new languages and understanding diverse cultures. This is evident from my years experience in the merchant navy in addition to my travel history.

I can communicate adequately in Spanish in view of the fact that I lived in Spain during my gap year, which I benefitted from by training and working with an array of performance animals and staff.
